What is Going On Tonight.
Nathaniel Lodge, No. 14, Knights of Pythias, meet at 101 Main street.
Board of aldermen meet at council chamber, town building.

A two-wheeled wagon owned by Charles Chaffoux of Brick Top Road and driven by his wife, was badly smashed Sunday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock at the intersection of Jackson and Main streets, when struck by an automobile owned and operated by James Oakes, of 15, 4 Williams street, Hartford. Mrs. Chaffoux drove out of Jackson street and turned to go east on Main street, with the Hartford man's car, traveling west, crashed into the left front wheel, with Mrs. Chaffoux in the wagon were three children. All were badly tumbled about and shocked with minor bruises. Mr. Oakes agreed to pay for the damage he had caused and after reporting to police headquarters was allowed to proceed to Hartford.

The Chaffoux two-wheeler sustained two broken front wheels, a sprung body and damaged rear wheels. The horse escaped injury but the harness was broken.

This place on Main street has been the site of many accidents in recent weeks, the turn into Main street being made dangerous by the stone buildings which stand at the left hand corner of this junction, preventing a person coming into Main street from seeing a west-bound car until well into Main street.

The ordinance concerning the parking of automobiles on the streets of the city within the fire district were somewhat disconnected Saturday morning in police court when Jay M. Grant, was notified to appear in court for leaving his automobile standing on Main street longer than two hours, the limit under the ordinance passed by the common council and approved Nov. 11, 1914. Through his attorney a demurrer was entered and was taken under consideration by Deputy Judge Curtis Dean. The case was continued until this (Monday) morning.

Attorney Danahy reviewed two ordinances passed by the common council relating to the parking of vehicles, one in 1914, the second April 16, 1920. He read to court sections of the last named ordinance as follows: No vehicle shall remain standing in any street unless it is parallel to the curb and as near thereto as practicable, except when leading or unloading, and in no case shall such vehicle remain standing in the daytime more than two hours upon any street in the fire district of the city. Unreasonable delay in such loading or unloading shall constitute a violation of this ordinance.

It was claimed by the defense that the ordinance passed in 1920 was inconsistent with the other, in that making the change in the manner of parking vehicles from parallel to an angle from the curb only certain sections of the fire district were named and no mention was made in the later ordinance as to the time limit for parking vehicles on the streets in the fire district. It was contended that the ordinance of 1920 superseded the one passed in 1914.

Another similar case continued from earlier in the week, that of Ovilla Martin, was also continued to this (Monday) morning.

Rev. Otto S. Baumister of St. Joseph's church, this city, delivered a patriotic address Friday night at Baker's hall, Warrenville.

ident Saturday afternoon about 2 o'clock at the head of Bridge street, when the Maxwell coupe, owned and driven by Mr. Wheeler, and the touring car, driven by Mr. Moore, came together. The Hartford car was headed east on Main street while the Moosup car was turning into Main street from Bridge street, headed west. Neither driver saw the other until the corner was reached and then both applied their brakes. The Hartford car skidded and whirled about, the Moosup car knocking the rear right wheel from the car and locked into the rear left wheel. The police were notified as was Motor Vehicle Inspector John B. Edgerton. Mr. Wheeler blamed the driver of the Moosup car for the accident. The Moosup man contended he was not to blame as he had the right of way. A settlement was reached.

Walter Chappell, of Franklin, and John Erbacha of No. 20 Winter street, this city, have launched the Bertha E. a thirty-six foot boat, and are to use it for fishing trips on Long Island sound. Last winter the men pooled $2,000 and engaged Louis Gunderson of Pleasant Valley to construct the boat. Mrs. Grace Potter's barn was secured and work begun. The work was finished a few days ago and Saturday the boat was launched in the Thames river, at Norwich. The boat measures 36 feet long, with a beam of seven feet. The keel and ribs are laid in white oak, the body and covering being of red cedar. The cabin in the center of the boat is 18 feet long and 10 feet wide. Compartments have been provided for bunks and for the fish pit. A thirty horse motor will give the boat a speed of about twenty knots an hour. The boat was named in honor of Mr. Erbacha's daughter.

COLCHESTER

Chapter 390, public acts of 1921, provides in substance that when any school district is without a schoolhouse and is financially unable to erect a schoolhouse or provide suitable schooling for children in that district the selectmen may erect a schoolhouse or provide suitable accommodation for such children. In the event the selectmen do not so provide, the committee of such district may petition state board of education for hearing, and if at this hearing said allegations are proved to be true, the state board of education may order such town to erect schoolhouse or provide a way for schooling of such children. On petition of Peter Lappi there is to be a hearing in Grange hall today (Monday), Aug. 8, at 1 o'clock, regarding the school in District No. 16.

Mrs. Reginald McDonald left town on Friday for a few days' visit with friends in Hartford.

The committee of merchants on Merchants' row is planning to have festoons of electric lights to light up the concrete on the row for the community dance on Wednesday evening. Their places of business will be decorated with flags and bunting. The street will be roped off so that teams and automobiles will not interfere with the dancing.

The subscribers to Chautauqua held a meeting in Academy hall Friday evening to complete arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Baker were guests of their sons in New Britain Saturday. Selma P. Sears was a business caller in Hartford Saturday.

Three large auto trucks from New London were in town Friday and were loaded with track and the pipe which was taken to the New London section of the new state road.
